

New Restaurants in Los Angeles

by Mar Yvette - Citysearch Editor - 484 Reviews - 154 Lists

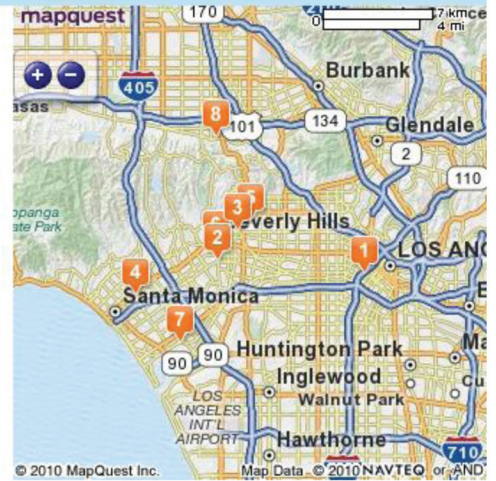

favorite send to share

Updated: September 16, 2010
 Looking for the hottest new restaurants in LA? Even if you're watching your wallet a little more closely these days, you still have to eat. So you may as well do it in style. Get the lowdown on which Los Angeles restaurants are worth your time ... and your dime. Whether you're on the hunt for experimental eats from LA's top chefs or schmoozing at Hollywood's latest A-list spot, you'll find something tasty at these new LA restaurants. (Photo: Red O)

Like 68 people like this. Be the first of your friends.

Report Abuse

LA's New Restaurants

LA's New Restaurants

8 Chi Dynasty

Read Reviews

12229 Ventura Blvd, Studio City, CA 91604 (map)

Located in a small strip mall next to the ostentatious Romanov restaurant, this newcomer to Studio City is a low-key spot for affordable Chinese food. The original Los Feliz location has long been a favorite (27 years and counting) and now Valley-ites have a chance to taste why: The "Best in Town" chicken salad, steamed veggie dumplings, hot fish with broccoli and about a million other Chinese standards that stay well under the $20 mark.